MR. FREDERICK HALL, an employe of MR. FREEERICK HALL, an employe of the Estimore & Potomae Isilroad, was engaged in transferring some cars near the freight depot, South Washington, at 1:30 octock this morning, when he fell under the wheels and had his left leg badly mashed. Three of the cars had broken away, and were running down grade when he attempted to get on board of one to put on the brakes. In this he failed, falling on the track. Dr. Brakman was called in, and completed shillfully the amputation nearly effected by the whoels. At 2:30 o'clock the injured man was apparently little affected in candition by the experiences of the previous hour, and would, it was hoped, recover all but his leg.

True worth and genuine kindness of heart do sometimes meet with appreciation in this world, as was evidenced on Christmas day by the presentation to the worthy commissioner of the Washington Asylum, Mr. Stoutenberg, of a gold-headed cane, a gift from the employes of the institution, as an expression of their personal regard and of their appreciation of his executive abilities as head of the institution, and well has Mr. Stoutenberg merited such tribute; not only for his manily and brotherly consideration for the employes, but for his humans, but firm and masterly control of the unfortunate ones committed to his care. We congratulate the commissioner and wish him many a prosperous year as superintendont of the Washington Asylum.

Another Fashionable Colored Wedding.

Farman J. Shadd, M. D., and Miss Alice Fark were united in marriage at the Fifteenth-street church last evening, the Ry. Dr. Grimke officialing. The alian of the church was beautifully decorated with rare exotics and potted plants. Promptly at 7 o'cleak the happy procession filed up the alian, preceded by the little cousin of the bride, Miss Hattle Bruce, who bore a beautiful design made of flowers. Next came the brideamaids, Miss Caddie L. Fark and Miss May Morris, of Gleveland, escerted by Messre, W. E. Matthews, Garnet D. Baltimore, of Troy; E. P. Henderson and Wyatt Archie. The Rev. Hugh M. Brown acted as best man. Meanwhile Professor Flaet played to telling effect Mendelesoin's wedding march. The bride and groom were arrayed in all the elegance, uses and style incidental to such occasions. Admission to the church was by card. Among the fistinguished persons present were the Hons. B. K. Broze and lady, Fred. Douglas, John B. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brocks of New York, Professor and Mrs. B. T. Greener, Hon. John F. Cook and lady, Miss Ray of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Minney. A magnificent reception followed the conclusion of nupital ceremonies, which took place at the residence of the bride's paronia on B street.

The resignations of Miss Kate Reyburn, of the Fifth Division, and Miss Francis Hooper, of the Second, were accepted.

A communication from the Commissioners of the District was read, notifying the beard that at the instance of Professor Gregory a mandamus had been applied for to compel them to place his son in a white school in the Prescut building. Upon motion of Mr. Warner, Mr. Matthews, of the old board, and Mr. Loveloy, of the present board, were designated a committee to confor with the attorney for the District and to render any assistance that he might require in preparing the response to the application for mandamus.

The board adjourned until Thursday evening.

FUN, FAST AND FURIOUS,

At a Bance of Colored People in Maiden Lane.

Judge Snell's attention was called this morning to a select social entertainment given some evenings ago by Miss Eliza Catlet at her damicile in Maiden lane, formerly known as Louse alley. The dance was at its height, with all the colored beaux of the neighborhood mingling in the "mazes of the gliday," when Frances Carter appeared on the scone of the festivities and demanded to know whether her "feller was dancin.

His Pupils Present the Professor With an Elegant Gold Scarfpin. With an Etegant Gold Scarfpin.

Professor Birmingham's juvenile Christmas matinee took place yesterday evening at Washington Hall, beginning at 3 o'clock. The hall was packed with gaily dressed little misses and masters, who outcred fato the whirls and dgures with becoming ease and grace, to the delight of their parents and friends, who were present in force. Durling an intermission in a square dance little Miss Lucy Bayno and Master Archie Roberts, in a neat and appropriate speech, presented the gental Professor with a handsome beat-gold pin, of atlas and talon design. Professor Birmingham was too full of emotion to respond, and simply bowed his acknowledgments to the wee denors.

Among the scholars present were Misses Beesle Boherts, Lazie Andrews, ids Tolson, Haitle Wheeler, May McCauley, Edith Lowe, Helten Soule, Datay French, Edith Graig, Ross and Aggle Dillon, Annie and Mattle Lamb, Teaty Dillon and little Bessie Dillon and Masters Henry James, Archie Roberts, Lazie Angel, Professor Dillon, Annie and Mattle Lamb, Teaty Dillon and little Bessie Dillon and Masters Henry James, Archie Roberts, Harted Glasscock, Walter Beatty, Chester Beatty, William Hoeke, Harry Natlor, Harry Tallock and C.
